

Small things can have a big impact:

Make and drop seed bombs.

To promote bees, bumblebees and butterflies in urban areas, homemade seed bombs made from precious wild flowers can be thrown into plant borders, parks, traffic islands and the like. Happy throwing!

Ingredients for approx. 20 seed balls:

- 200g clay (available in drugstores)
- 200g peat-free potting soil
- 3 packets of flower seeds of various native wild flowers
- Water
- 1 small & 1 large bowl
- Newspaper

How to make the seed balls:

1. Put the different flower seeds in the small bowl and mix.
2. Put the potting soil in the large bowl and loosen it up so that there are no lumps or coarse pieces in it. Add the clay and seeds and mix well.
3. Gradually add small amounts of water to form balls the size of a walnut. If there is too much water, the mixture becomes too liquid and cannot be shaped. In this case, add some more clay and potting soil.
4. Squeeze a small portion of the mixture in the palm of your hand and carefully form balls.
5. Leave the finished balls to dry on the newspaper. Caution: Do not put them on the heater, as this would be too warm for the seeds. After about two days, the seed bombs are ready to be thrown.

Now gift the seed balls as presents and/or throw them in your own garden, in plant borders in the neighbourhood or in public parks in spring. (Please do not put them out in private gardens, nature reserves or on agricultural land).